National Maritime Museum spring and summer 2024

We are making significant improvements to the building at the National Maritime Museum from spring 2024 to spring 2025. This will include the closure of the AHOY! children's gallery. We are still welcoming schools during this time but please check the website for more information about how this will affect your visit.

Introduction

The National Maritime Museum, Queen's House, Cutty Sark and our collections and conservation store the Prince Phillip Maritime Collections Centre are part of Royal Museums Greenwich. Our collections tell stories of people and the sea and relate to themes of exploration, trade, conflict and environment, to name a few! A visit to our sites or a digital session offers unique cross-curricular experiences and activities which develop skills in historical enquiry and critical thinking and inspire creative responses. This guide outlines all you need to know about both our onsite and digital sessions for primary schools and includes key information and top tips for making the most of your learning experience with us.

Our Sites

The National Maritime Museum (NMM)

Our exhibitions and displays tell stories of people and the sea and trace links between Britain and the wider world. Primary school sessions from the NMM cover topics such as exploration and piracy. Activities often support literacy as well as foundation subjects as they inspire and support writing outcomes. Museum collections are a powerful starting point for sparking curiosity and generating ideas on any topic.

The Queen's House

Next door to the NMM, the Queen's House is a beautiful example of classical architecture. Designed by architect Inigo Jones and built in the 1630s as a royal residence, it now houses our art collection. EYFS and Primary school sessions here focus on using the artworks to inspire creative projects and as a focus for discussion on themes such as identity and power.

Cutty Sark

Overlooking the river Thames and a short walk from NMM and the Queen's House, Cutty Sark is a Victorian sailing ship and was the fastest of its time. Schools can book guided or independent tours of the ship or book onsite/digital sessions that explore life on board as a Victorian Sailor, the cargo it transported around the world and links to global trade today, supporting subjects from Literacy to Geography, connections to the wider world and more.

The Prince Phillip Maritime Collections Centre (PPMCC)

Located in Kidbrooke, a bus ride away from the other sites, PPMCC is our collections and conservation store. Here you can see our collections that are not currently on display and discover how they are cared for and conserved. Primary school sessions focus on the science of materials and their properties and explore our large collection of maps, charts and globes. There are also opportunities to work on extended projects on making a museum display.

Frequently asked questions

How do I book a school session?

For onsite sessions and digital sessions please complete the relevant online booking form and our Bookings team will be in touch to confirm details and process your booking.

How much do school sessions cost?

Digital sessions are £60 per session. Prices for our onsite sessions can be found with the session information in this guide. Onsite sessions at National Maritime Museum, Queen's House and the Prince Phillip Maritime Collections Centre are free for Greenwich schools.

How do I pay for a school session?

Please make payment by card by calling 020 8312 6608. We can arrange for payment by BACS if requested. You must pay for your sessions before they begin.

What if I need to cancel a booked session?

Please email bookings@rmg.co.uk at least 28 days in advance of your visit to cancel. Cancellations made less than 28 days in advance will not be refunded. Free sessions cancelled less than 28 days in advance will incur a fee of £75.00 per class per session.

I'm a home educator, can I book a school session?

Home education groups are welcome to take part in the schools programme. You can book a digital session for a cost of £60 for up to 30 learners (inclusive of all accompanying adults and siblings). Onsite sessions are charged at the same rates as those advertised for schools, again with a maximum number of 30 learners (inclusive of all accompanying adults and siblings) per session. The minimum group size is 15 people.

What adult supervision do I need for an onsite visit?

EYFS/KS1: 1 adult per 5 children
KS2: 1 adult per 8 children

Key information for planning a visit to the National Maritime Museum

Making the most of your day

As well as booking an onsite session at NMM you can schedule a whole day of activity by adding a lunch slot, a trail and time in one of our children's galleries. As there will be a one-way system in place for 2024, please let the bookings team know which you would like to book and they can create a timetable for your day.

Trails

You can download and print our gallery trails from the website or you can request pre-printed versions to collect on the day of your visit.

Supporting resources

There are lots of classroom resources and videos on our website to follow-up or prepare for a session with us.

Children's Galleries

There are two children's galleries at NMM.

- All Hands children's gallery – suitable for Key Stage 2, this includes displays and activities on signalling at sea, maps and navigation and loading and unloading cargo. Due to the one way system of the museum this will be a through path, but also available for school activities.
- Ahoy children's gallery - suitable for EYFS and key stage 1, this includes role play activities such as hoisting the sail, stoking the boiler and cooking on board ship. (Bookable only during the autumn term)

Please check online or contact our bookings team for more information.

Other Museum highlights

- Nelson's Ship in a Bottle just outside the Parkside entrance to the NMM - can you pose so it looks like you're popping the cork?
- Exploration galleries - Polar Worlds, Pacific encounters, Tudor and Stuart seafarers and Sea Things – A must-see if your theme or topic relates to exploring or migration and home to some of our star objects

Supervision

Please ensure you have sufficient staff with your group throughout the visit (See our FAQ section for ratios).

Arrival and departure

NMM has a Parkside entrance leading in from Greenwich Park. When you arrive at the Parkside entrance a visitor assistant will meet you and you'll leave your coats and bags in one of our learning spaces allocated to your class.

Storage facilities for bags and coats

Coats and bags can be stored in trolley bays in our learning spaces across the Museum. Please do not leave valuables in the bays.

Lunch facilities

If you need a lunch space, please make sure you book one before you visit. Lunch slots are 30 minutes and are in the learning spaces of the Museum. Please make sure you check and are aware of your lunch time and lunch space specified on your visit timetable and leave tables tidy for the next group. In good weather, many groups choose to picnic outside on the lawns.

Toilet facilities

There are toilets suitable for groups located on the ground floor next to the Parkside entrance/Café. These facilities are also used by the general public. A Changing Places facility is also located by the Parkside entrance. You will need to walk through the shop. Please ask a member of staff for the key required to use this facility. Please bring your own sling.

Shops and Cafés

There is a shop and a café in the museum: The café is next to the Sammy Ofer Wing (park side) entrance.

Self-guided visits

You are welcome to visit the National Maritime Museum without booking one of our facilitated sessions. When exploring the galleries, please split into smaller groups of no more than 8 people and be mindful of other visitors. Please be aware that we cannot guarantee a cloakroom facility or lunch room for self-guided school groups. More information on self-guided visits can be found on our website.
