

Find a spot on the Great Map to begin your journey

Imagine that you are journeying around the Museum today and use this trail to record what you discover. You will meet sea travellers who have sailed across the oceans.

What do you already know about travel across the sea? Have you seen the sea?

Can you see any seafarers from the past here on the Great Map?

Navigate

In the Museum you will find hundreds of incredible objects which tell the stories of people and their connections to the sea. Use this trail to discover amazing objects and record your journey.

Now our adventure in the Museum is coming to an end, look back at your trail...

What did you see?

What was the highlight of your trip?

Is there anything else you would like to remember? Add a drawing or make a note on your trail.

What will your next adventure be?

When you are in the galleries, feel free to find a comfortable spot to sit – either on a bench or on the floor – to draw or write on your trail. If you need any help during your visit, speak to our friendly staff. There are places to rest and eat in the Museum as well as baby-changing facilities. For more details, please see the map of the Museum.

Here you can explore the history of travel and exploration in the Pacific, the world's largest ocean.

The people living on the Pacific Islands had been navigating the sea around them for thousands of years before European explorers travelled there.

Take a look at the Pacific Voyagers bookcase by the wave.

What methods do different people living in the Pacific use to find their way?

Memory is an important part of navigation.

What do you remember seeing on your way to the Museum?

Compare your memories with someone else.

Try and spot the Endeavour and Adi Yeta, the Fijian canoe. Imagine travelling on these different boats.
